2 Read the paragraph below and answer the questions.

I am Mami Sato. And I am here because I was saved by sport.

I was nineteen when my life changed. I was a runner. I was a swimmer. I was even a cheerleader. But, one day I lost my leg to *cancer. Of course, it was hard. I was in *despair. But, I returned to university and I took up *athletics. I found that I enjoyed setting a goal and *beating it. I developed new *confidence. I learned that what was important was what I had, not what I had lost. I was in the Paralympic Games in Athens and Beijing, and London.

On the 11th of March 2011, the tsunami hit my hometown. For six days I did not know if my family were still alive. And, when I found them, I was really happy. I collected messages from schools and took them home. And I shared my own experiences with the people. I also took food *supplies. And other athletes did the same. Only then I saw the true power of sport... To create new dreams and smiles. To give hope. To bring people together.
